Clerk Brown Discusses the Keys to Life Satisfaction at National Council of Negro Women Community Forum

What: The Honorable Dorothy Brown, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County, will discuss life satisfaction and empowerment opportunities for African American women at the "Tomorrow Begins Today: African American Women as We Age" educational forum hosted by the National Council of Negro Women (NCNW) in partnership with the NCNW Chicago Midwest Section.

This event is part of the NCNW's public education campaign to inspire African American women to view middle age as a time of renaissance and renewal. The organization also seeks to broaden the definition of "aging well" beyond health, and encourage women to see how social engagement and planning for financial security contributes to qualities of life as women grow older.

"I am honored to participate in this event because it allows women from various backgrounds to share their life experiences on how to live a satisfying life no matter their ages," said Clerk Brown.

When: Saturday, May 14
1 p.m.

Where: Chicago Hilton
720 S. Michigan Ave.
Chicago
