Dorothy Brown to Speak about Philanthropy in the African-American Community at “Celebration of One”

What: The Honorable Dorothy Brown, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County, will deliver the keynote address for the “Celebration of One,” a program hosted by the African-American Community Outreach Committee (AACOC) for United Way of Metropolitan Chicago. She will discuss opportunities for achievement in the African-American community and how the great tradition of philanthropy plays into that success. She will also share her personal triumphant story.

This event is a celebration of African-American businesses that have agreed to provide in-kind materials, services and/or monetary donations to agencies providing service in African-American communities.

Four organizations will receive awards for their community programs during the event: Henry Booth House - Family Night; Carole Robertson Center for Learning – School Age Child Care; Chicago Abused Women Coalition – Green House Shelter and NIA Comprehensive Center for Developmental Disabilities.

When: Thursday, May 12
6 p.m.

Where: DuSable Museum
740 E. 56th Pl.
Chicago

Details: The mission of the United Way is to improve lives by mobilizing caring people to invest in the community where their resources are needed most. Through a network of United Way partner agencies, the AACOC provides workable solutions to address community issues.
